

Index

- Abbreviations, 717–718
- Action verbs, 128–129
- Ad hominem argument, 476
- Added-detail phrase fragment, 668
- Adjective(s), general vs. precise, 72
- Adjective phrases, 121
- Adler, Mortimer, 3
- Adverb(s)
- transitional, 674
 - parallel, 121
 - unnecessary, 130
- Alliteration, 636
- Ambiguous modifiers, 691–692
- American Psychological Association (APA), 582
- American Psychological Association (APA) format
- for book sources, 606–608
 - for documenting borrowed material, 582, 604–611
 - for DVD sources, 611
 - for electronic sources, 609–610
 - for filmstrip sources, 611
 - for movie sources, 611
 - for periodical sources, 608–609
 - for personal interview sources, 603
 - for phone interview sources, 603
 - for radio program sources, 611
 - for recording sources, 611
 - for references list, 605–606
 - for slide program sources, 611
 - for television program sources, 611
 - for videotape sources, 611
- Analogy, 351
- Anecdotes, using to support thesis, 45–46
- Angelou, Maya, 167
- “Sister Flowers,” 167–171
- Angier, Natalie, 446
- “The Cute Factor,” 446–450
- Annotation, of books/reading selections, 3
- Antecedents, 687, 689–691
- Apostrophe, 706–708
- Appeals to questionable or faulty authority, 476
- Argumentation, 455. See also Argumentation-persuasion
- Argumentation-persuasion
- assertion/proposition in, 462
 - audience for, 456–459
 - audience types, 458–459
 - conflict reduction in, 466
 - deductive reasoning in, 471–473
 - defined, 455–456
 - description in, 151
 - drafting, 460–462
 - generating thesis evidence using, 48
 - inductive reasoning in, 469–471
 - logical fallacies in, 475–477
 - logical thinking in developing, 469–473
 - organizing, 465
 - as a pattern of development, 39
 - prewriting activities, 491
 - prewriting checklist for, 460
 - prewriting strategies, 460
 - purpose for, 456–459
 - refuting differing viewpoint, 468–469
 - revising activities, 492–494
 - revision strategies, 477–478
 - revision/peer review checklist, 477–478
 - Rogsonian strategy in, 465–468
 - strategies for using, 460–476
 - student essay and commentary and, 478–490
 - syllogisms in, 471–473
 - thesis support, 463–464
 - thesis types, 462–463
 - Toulmin logic in, 473–475
 - writing assignments for, 500–501, 504–506, 510–511, 515–516, 519–520, 524–527
- Assignments, boundaries of, 18.
- See also* Writing assignments
- Assonance, 636
- Attributions, 583–585
- Audience
- in argumentation-persuasion, 456–459
 - in cause-effect, 383, 386
 - in comparison-contrast, 347
 - in definition essays, 420
 - description and, 161
 - in division-classification, 270
 - in essays, 19–20
 - hostile, 459
 - in illustration (example), 227
 - in literary analysis, 639
 - in narration, 192
 - in narrative essay, 192
 - process analysis in, 308, 312
 - supportive audience, 458
 - wavering audience, 459
- Authorship, documenting, 582–586
- Background paragraphs, 78
- Begging the question, 476
- Bibliographies, 543
- Bissinger, H. G. “Buzz,” 407
- “Innocents Afield,” 407–409
 - “Black Talk and Pop Culture” (Savan), 258–263
- Blogs, 554
- “Bombs Bursting in Air” (Johnson), 252–255
- Bookmark, on Internet browser, 550
- “Border on Our Backs, The” (Rodriguez), 517–518

- Brackets, 710
 in direct quotations, 567
- Brainstorming, 27–28
- Bridging sentences, 77
- Brooks, David, 300
 “Psst! ‘Human Capital,’” 301–302
- Call for action, 463
- Call number, 538, 539
- Capitalization guidelines, 713–714
- Causal analysis essays, 151
- Causal chain, 386, 388
- Cause-effect analysis of causes and effects, 387–389
 audience for, 383
 complexity of, 391–392 correlation vs. causation, 389
 defined, 382
 drafting, 385–392
 generating thesis evidence using, 48
 organizing, 390–391
 as a pattern of development, 39
 prewriting activities, 400–401
 prewriting checklist for, 384–385 prewriting strategies for, 384–385
 purpose for, 383–384
 revising activities, 402
 revision strategies, 392, 401–402
 revision/peer review checklist, 392
 speculative approach, 387
 strategies for using, 385–392
 student essay and commentary
 and, 393–400
 thesis in, 389
 writing assignments, 410–412, 415–418
- Character, 635
- Characterization, 635
- “Charity Display” (Gholson), 220–222
- Checklists for first reading, 2
- Chopin, Kate, 652
 “The Story of an Hour,” 652–654
- Chronological order in paragraphs, 75–76
- Chronological organization of evidence, 56
- Circularity, in formal definitions, 425
- Claim, in Toulmin logic, 473–475
- Clauses dependent, 121–122, 670, 676 independent, 670
 nonrestrictive, 672 who, which, and that, 115
- Clichés, 131
- Climax, 635
- Clustering technique, 28–29
- Cognates, 721
- Cohen, Patricia, 370 “Reality TV: Surprising Throwback to the Past?,” 370–372
- Coherent paragraphs, 74–78
- Cole, Diane, 332
 “Don’t Just Stand There,” 333–337
- Cole, K. C., 435
 “Entropy,” 436–438
- Collective nouns, 687
- Colon, 702–703
- Combined notes, 572–573
- Comma(s), 676, 695–700
 correcting errors in use of, 699–700
- Comma splices, 674–678
- “Common Decency” (Jacoby), 512–514
- Comparison-contrast audience for, 347
 defined, 346
 drafting, 349–354
 generating thesis evidence using, 48
 organizing, 352–353
 as a pattern of development, 39
 prewriting activities, 362–363
 prewriting checklist for, 348–348
 prewriting strategies in, 348–349 purpose in, 347–351
 revising activities, 363–364
 revision strategies, 354–355
 revision/peer review checklist, 354–355
 strategies for using, 349–354
 student essay and commentary
 and, 355–362
 thesis in, 351
 transitions in, 353–354
 writing assignments using,
 368–369, 373–374, 378–381
- Complex sentences, 117–118, 119
- Compound sentences, 116–117
- Compound subjects, 687
- Compound-complex
 sentences, 118
- Computerized library catalogs, 536–540
- Conclusion(s) faulty, 471, 472
 strategies for writing, 82–84
- Conflict, 635. See also Narrative conflict
- Conjunctions coordinating, 676
 subordinating, 670
- Connotation, 21–22, 126–127
- Connotative language, 152, 457
- Coordinating conjunctions, 676
- Correlation vs. causation, 389
- Credibility, of writer, 458
- “Cute Factor, The” (Angier), 446–450
- “Cyberschool” (Stoll), 327–329
- Dash, 712
- Data, in Toulmin logic, 473–475
- Definition
 audience for, 420
 defined, 419–420
 developing extended, 425
 drafting, 422–426 formal, 424
 generating thesis evidence using, 48
 introduction in, 425–426
 pre-reading journal entry, 435
 prewriting activities, 434
 prewriting checklist, 421–422
 prewriting strategies, 421–422
 purpose for, 420–421
 revising activities, 434–435
 revision strategies, 426–427
 revision/peer review checklist, 426–427
 strategies for using, 422–426
 student essay and commentary
 and, 427–433
 writing assignments for, 439–440, 445–446, 451–454
- Demonstrative pronouns, 674
- Denotation, 21–22, 126–127
- Denotative language, 152
- Dependent clauses, 670, 676 guidelines for using commas with, 671–672
 parallel, 121–122
- Dependent clause fragments, 670–674
 correcting, 671, 672–674
 types of, 670–671
- Description
 audience for, 161
 conclusion in, 164
 connotative language in, 152
 defined, 150
 denotative language in, 152
 details in, 154–156

- dominant impressions in, 153–154, 162
- drafting, 153–154
- figurative language in, 157, 163
- objective, 151–152
- organizing, 156, 163
- as a pattern of development, 47
- patterns of development and, 162, 180
- point of view in, 153
- prewriting activities for, 165
- prewriting checklist for, 153
- prewriting strategies, 153
- purpose for, 151, 153, 161
- revising activities for, 165–167
- revision of, 158, 164–165
- revision/peer review checklist for, 158
- sensory language in, 156–157, 162–163
- strategies for using, 153
- student essay and commentary and, 159–165
- subjective, 152
- thesis in, 153
- tone in, 152, 153
- types of, 153
- writing assignments for, 173–174, 180–181, 192–193
- Details
 - in descriptive essays, 154–156
 - using to support thesis, 45–46
- Dewey Decimal System, 536, 539
- call numbers in, 539
- Diagramming technique, 28–29
- Diction
 - formal, 125–126
 - informal, 126
 - mainstream, 126
 - popular, 126
 - of words, 125–126
- Dictionary, use in editing and proofreading, 140–141
- Direct quotations, 703–705
 - notes reproducing, 566–567
- Directional process analysis, 308. See also Process analysis
- Division-classification
 - audience for, 270
 - conclusions or recommendations in, 276–277
 - defined, 268–269
 - drafting, 272–277
 - generating thesis evidence using, 47
 - logical application of, 275
 - organizing, 276
 - prewriting activities, 285–286
 - prewriting checklist, 272
 - prewriting strategies, 272
 - purpose for, 270–271
 - revising activities, 286–287
 - revision strategies for, 277–278
 - revision/peer review checklist for, 277–278
 - single principle in, 273–274
 - strategies for using, 272–277
 - student essay and commentary and, 278–285
 - thesis in, 275–276
 - writing assignments in, 293–294, 298–300, 303–307
- Documentation
 - American Psychological Association (APA)
 - format, 582
 - avoiding plagiarism, 581–611
 - of borrowed material, 581–611
 - Modern Language Association (MLA) format, 582–604
 - special types of authorship, 585–586
 - using systems other than MLA or APA, 611
- Domain names, 550
- Dominant impressions, 153–154, 162
 - in descriptive essays, 153–154
- “Don’t Just Stand There” (Cole), 333–337
- Doublespeak, 126
- “Doublespeak” (Lutz), 288–290
- Drafting
 - cause-effect essays, 385–392
 - comparison-contrast essays, 349–354
 - definition essays, 422–426
 - description essays, 153–154
 - division-classification essays, 272–277
 - exam essays, 662
 - first draft, 64–87
 - general suggestions for approaching, 65
 - illustration (example) essays, 230–231
 - literary analysis, 643–644
 - narrative essays, 193, 194
 - research papers, 579–581
 - revising first draft. See Revision sequence for writing, 66–85
 - student essay and commentary and, 85–88
 - supporting paragraphs in, 66–78
 - writing from outline (checklist), 65
- Dramatic examples, 232
- Dramatic irony, 636
- Dramatic license, 194, 196
- Dribben, Melissa, 111–112, 124–125
- “Early Autumn” (Hughes), 646–647
- EBSCOhost, 546
- Editing, 140–141
 - activities, 148–149
 - charting errors in, 140–141
 - tools for, 140–141
- Either/or fallacy, 476
- Ellipsis, 705–706
 - use in direct quotations, 566, 567
- Emotional power of language, 457
- Emphasis
 - methods of achieving, 120–124
 - in sentences, 120–124
- Emphatic approach to organizing evidence, 57
- Emphatic order in paragraphs, 75–76
- Empty phrases, 113–114
- “Entropy” (Cole), 436–438
- Essay(s)
 - audience for, 19–20
 - exam, 655–665
 - limited subject of, 23–33
 - outlines for, 31–33
 - overview of writing process, 13–14
 - patterns of development. See Patterns of development. See also under specific patterns of development
 - point of view of, 22–23
 - prewriting, 31–33
 - purpose of, 19
 - reading, 2–10
 - structure of, 84–85
 - student essay and commentary and, 143–148
 - thesis in, 36–42
 - thesis placement in, 42
 - tone of, 21–22
 - topics of. See Limited subjects
- Ethos, 457
- Euphemisms, 126
- “Euromail and Amerimail” (Weiner), 375–377
- Evaluation, of reading selection, 4–5
- Evidence
 - accuracy of, 51

- acknowledging sources of, 51
 activities, 61–63
 adequacy of, 50 approaches to organizing, 55–58
 causal chain, 386
 characteristics of, 48–51
 defined, 45
 dramatic, 50–51
 organizing, 54–61
 organizing activities, 61–63
 one-side-at-a-time method, 352–353
 point-by-point method, 353
 outlining, 58–61
 patterns of development and 54
 post hoc fallacy, 386, 388–389 primary and secondary causes/effects, 386 representative, 51
 sources of, 45–48 specificity of, 49 supporting thesis with, 52–53
- Exam essays approach to taking, 658–660 checklist for preparing for, 658
 drafting, 662
 essay-length answers, 657 forms of, 656–657 key direction words in questions, 659
 organizing, 661
 outlining in, 661 paragraph-length answers, 656–657 preparing for, 657–658
 prewriting, 660
 revising, editing, and proofreading, 662–663
 short answers, 656 student essay answer and commentary and, 663–665
 thesis in, 660–661
 writing assignment, 665
- Examples, to support thesis, 45–46
 Exclamation point, 675, 695
 Expert opinions to support thesis, 45–46 Extended examples, 231, 232
- Facts to support thesis, 45–46
 False analogy, 476
 Faulty conclusions, 471, 472
 Faulty logic, 475–477
 Faulty parallelism, 678–679
 Faulty sentences, 668–679
- Faulty subject-verb agreement, 681–682
 Feedback chart, 102
 Figures of speech, 636 in description essays, 157
 in sample essays, 163 judicious use of, 131–132 original, 130–131
 types of, 131
- File transfer protocols (FTPs), 556
 First draft. See Drafting
 First person point of view, 22, 235, 635
- Fish, Stanley, 494–495
 “Free-Speech Follies,” 495–498
 Flashback, 194, 196–197
 Flashforward, 194, 196–197
 “Flavio’s Home” (Parks), 181–191
 Foreshadowing, 635
 Formal definitions, 424–425
 Formal diction, 125–126
 Format for manuscripts, 141–142 “Fourth of July, The” (Lorde), 208–211
- Fragments
 defined, 122
 dependent clause as, 670–674 phrase, 668–670
 using for emphasis, 122–123
 “Free-Speech Follies” (Fish), 495–498
- Freewriting, 26–27
 Frost, Robert, 650–651
 “Out, Out—,” 651
- FTPs (file transfer protocols), 556
 Fused sentences, 674
- Gender-neutral terms, 132–133
 General adjectives, 72
 Generalizations, 470
 Generalized examples, 232
 Gholson, Charmie, 220
 “Charity Display?,” 220–222
 Gleick, James, 440–441
 “Life As Type A,” 441–444
 Goodman, Ellen, 5
 “Family Counterculture,” 6–10
 Gopher, 556
 Grammar handbook, 140–141
 Group brainstorming, 28
 Group subject, 680–681
- Handbook of grammar and usage, 666–722
 Hasty generalizations, 470
 Helvarg, David, 174
 “The Storm This Time,” 174–179
 Homonyms, 720–721
 Hostile audience, 459
 Hughes, Langston, 646
 “Early Autumn,” 646–647
 Hymowitz, Kay S., 245
 “Tweens: Ten Going on Sixteen,” 245–249
- Hyphen, 710–711
 Hypothetical examples, 232
- Illustration (example) ambiguity in, 229
 audience for, 227
 defined, 226
 drafting, 230–231
 example development, 232–233 example types, 231–232 extended example in, 231 generating thesis evidence
 using, 47
 organizing, 234
 point of view in, 231, 234–235
 prewriting activities, 243
 prewriting checklist, 229–230
 prewriting strategies, 229–230
 purpose in, 227–229
 revising activities, 243–244
 revision strategies, 235
 revision/peer review checklist, 235
 student essay and commentary
 and, 236–242
 third-person point of view in, 231
 writing assignments for, 249–252, 256–257, 264–267
- Illustration pattern of development, 39
 Image, 636
 Imagery, 636
 Immediate cause/effect, 386
 “In Praise of the ‘F’ Word” (Sherry), 502–503
 Indefinite pronouns, 680, 688
 Indexes computerized and printed, 544–545 of periodicals, 541–547
 Indirect quotations, 703
 “Indispensable Opposition, The” (Lippman), 465
 Inductive leap, 471
 Inductive reasoning, 469–471
 Infinitive phrase fragment, 669
 Informal diction, 126
 Informal topic sentences, 194, 197, 206

- Information process analysis, 308. See also Process analysis InfoTrac, 543
 “Innocents Afield” (Bissinger), 407–409
- Internet. See also World Wide Web addresses, 549–550
 blogs, 554
 bookmarking website on browser, 550 checklist for using online time efficiently, 549–550 evaluating online materials, 555 online discussion groups, 554 using online time efficiently, 549–550 periodical databases, 542, 544–545 search directories on, 550–551 search engines on, 551–553. See also Search engines Telnet, 555
- Interrupting words and phrases, 698–699
- Interviews, for information-gathering, 530–531
- Introductions, strategies for writing, 79–82
- Inverted word order, 123
- Irony, 636
- It*, roundabout openings with, 114
- Italicizing, 714–715
- Jacoby, Susan, 511
 “Common Decency,” 512–514
- Johnson, Beth, 252 “Bombs Bursting in Air,” 252–255
- Journal
 defined, 15
 pre-reading entry in, 2, 16–18, 167, 174, 181, 208, 220, 213, 245, 252, 258, 287–291, 295, 327, 333, 339, 364, 370, 375, 402, 407, 435, 441, 446, 495, 501–502, 506, 512, 516, 521 in prewriting, 15–18 as a starting point for writing assignment, 174, 181, 193, 213, 220, 223–224, 252, 257, 265, 300, 304, 332, 339, 343–344, 369, 374, 379, 406–407, 411–412, 406–407, 416, 439–440, 446, 452, 501, 505–506, 511, 516, 520, 525
- Key directional words, 659
- King, Stephen, 402
 “Why We Crave Horror Movies,” 402–404
- Language, emotional power of, 457
- Library
 advantages and limitations of vs. World Wide Web, 548–549 computerized catalogs, 536–540
 Dewey Decimal System, 536, 540
 Library of Congress system, 536 list of common reference books in, 541 periodicals in, 541–547 reference section, 540–541 searching computerized catalogs, 536–540
- Library of Congress system, 536, 540
 call numbers in, 540
 “Life As Type A” (Gleick), 441–444
- Limited subjects, 23–33
 brainstorming, 27–28
 diagramming, 28
 freewriting, 26–27
 generating raw material on, 27–30 mapping technique, 28–29
 organizing raw material for, 31–33 patterns of development in, 29–30
 prewriting, 31–33
 research to develop, 30
- Link, on World Wide Web, 551
- Linking verbs, 128–129
- Lippman, Walter, 465
 “The Indispensable Opposition,” 465
- Literary analysis. See also Literary works
 audience for, 639
 checklist for revision, 644–645
 defined, 634
 drafting, 643–644
 editing and proofreading, 646 evidence to support thesis in, 642 organizing evidence in, 642–643
 prewriting, 639–640
 purpose for, 639–640
 revising, 644–645
 student essay and commentary and, 648–650 working thesis in, 640–641
 writing assignments, 646–648, 650
- Literary works. See also Literary analysis checklist for analyzing, 638–639 elements of, 635
 how to read, 637–639
 key terms in, 635–637 steps in analyzing, 637–639
- Logical fallacies, 475–477
- Logos, 457
- Lorde, Audre, 208
 “The Fourth of July,” 208–211
- Lutz, William, 287
 “Doublespeak,” 288–290
- Mainstream diction, 126
- Major premise, 471–473
- Manuscript format, 141–142
- Mapping technique, 28–29
- Marginal annotations, 103
- Mechanics
 abbreviations, 717–718
 capitalization, 713–714 correcting problems with, 721–722
 numbers vs. numerals, 716–717 underlining and italicizing, 714–715
- “Men We Carry in Our Minds, The” (Sanders), 295–297
- Metaphors, 131, 636
 in description essays, 157
- Meter, 636
- Minor premise, 471–473
- Misplaced modifiers, 691–692
- Missing-subject phrase fragment, 669
- MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers*, 582
- MLA. See Modern Language Association (MLA)
- Modern Language Association (MLA), 582
- Modern Language Association (MLA) format
 for book sources, 593–597
 for DVD sources, 603
 for electronic sources, 599–603
 for filmstrip sources, 603
 for lecture sources, 603–604
 for movie sources, 603
 for periodical sources, 597–599
 for personal interview sources, 603
 for phone interview sources, 603
 for radio program sources, 603
 for recordings sources, 603
 for slide program sources, 603
 for television program sources, 603
 for videotape sources, 603
 for works cited list using, 593–604
- Modifiers, 119
 ambiguous, 691–692

- correcting modification problems, 692–693
- dangling, 692
- defined, 691
- misplaced, 691–692
- Montaigne, Michel, 12
- Morrison, Toni, 364
 - “A Slow Walk of Trees,” 364–367
- Motif, 636
- Narration
 - audience in, 192
 - defined, 191–192
 - description in, 151
 - details in, 195
 - dialog in, 194
 - drafting, 194
 - dramatic license in, 194, 196
 - event selection, 193
 - flashback in, 194, 196–197
 - flashforward in, 194, 196–197
 - generating thesis evidence using, 47
 - informal topic sentence in, 194, 197, 206
 - narrative commentary and 194
 - narrative conflict, 193, 194, 204
 - narrative point in, 194–196, 204
 - narrative sequence in, 196–197
 - organizing, 204–205
 - patterns of development in, 205
 - personal experience in, 194
 - point of view in, 200, 204
 - prewriting activities for, 206–207
 - prewriting checklist, 193
 - prewriting checklist, 193
 - prewriting strategies, 193
 - public events in, 194
 - purpose for, 192
 - revising activities in, 207
 - revision of, 200–201
 - revision/peer review checklist for, 200–201
 - sensory language in, 197–199
 - strategies for using, 194–201
 - student essay and commentary and, 201–206
 - thesis in, 194
 - types of, 192
 - verb tense consistency in, 200
 - verb tense in, 204
 - writing assignments using, 212, 219–220, 223–225
- Narrative conflict, 204
- Narrative point, 194–196
- Narrator, 635
 - omniscient, 636
- Nominative case, 684
- Non sequitur fallacy, 476
- Nonrestrictive clauses, 672
- Nonrestrictive word groups, 697
- Nonsexist terms, 132–133
- Note-taking, 557–558
 - avoiding plagiarism during, 566, 570–572
 - checklist for, 563–565
 - checklist for recording statistics, 562–563
 - combined notes, 572–573
 - direct quotations, 566–567
 - kinds of notes, 566–570
 - paraphrasing, 570
 - photocopying materials and, 565–566
 - printing materials and, 565–566
 - recording information, 563–565
 - recording statistics, 562–563
 - selecting materials for, 562
 - sorting notes, 577
 - summaries, 568–570
- Noun(s)
 - collective, 687
 - general vs. precise, 72
 - parallel, 121
- Noun phrase fragments, 668
- Numbers, vs. numerals, 716–717
- Numerals, vs. numbers, 716–717
- Objective case, 684
- Objective description, 151–152
- Omniscient narrator, 636
- One-side-at-a-time method, 352–353
- Onomatopoeia, 163
- Orwell, George, 213
 - “Shooting an Elephant,” 214–218
 - “Out, Out—” (Frost), 651
- Outlining, 31–33, 58–61
 - checklist for, 59
 - research evidence, 577–579
- Pagination
 - documenting, 582
 - special cases in sources, 587
- Paglia, Camille, 506
 - “Rape: A Bigger Danger Than Feminists Know,” 506–509
- Paragraphs
 - with adequate support, 73–74
 - background, 78
 - coherent, 74–78
 - revision of paragraph
 - development, 104–106
 - specific, 71–72
 - strategies for writing, 72
 - strategies for writing coherent, 75–78
 - supporting, 66–78
 - topic sentences in, 68–69
 - transitional, 78–79
 - unified, 70–71
 - writing in the first draft, 88–89
- Parallelism, 112, 121–122
 - faulty, 678–679
- Paraphrasing, 570
- Parentheses, 708–710
- Parenthetical citations, 604–605
- Parenthetical references, 582
 - in literary analysis, 643–644
- Parker, Star, 521
 - “Se Habla Entitlement,” 521–523
- Parks, Gordon, 181
 - “Flavio’s Home,” 181–191
- Passive verbs, 129–130
- Past participle phrase fragment, 669
- Past perfect tense, 683
- Past tense, 682–683
- Pathos, 457
- Patterns of development, 29–30. See also Argumentation-persuasion; Cause-effect; Comparison-contrast; Definition; Description; Division-Classification; Illustration; Narration; Process analysis
 - argumentation-persuasion, 48
 - cause-effect, 48
 - combining, 162
 - comparison-contrast, 48
 - defined, 48
 - description, 47
 - division-classification, 47
 - generating thesis supporting evidence and, 46–48
 - illustration (example), 47
 - implied, 39
 - narration, 47, 205
 - organizing supporting evidence using, 55
 - organizing supporting paragraphs and, 69–70
 - process analysis, 47
- Peer review
 - acquiring skill in performing, 101
 - checklist for description essays, 158

- evaluating and responding to, 101–103
- value of, 99
- worksheet for, 100
- Period, 694
- Periodicals
- CD-ROM storage of indexes, 542
 - defined, 541
 - indexes of, 541–547
 - Internet databases of, 542, 544
 - locating specific issues of, 545–547
 - types of, 541, 542
- Periods, 675
- Person (point of view), shifts in, 688–689
- Personal experience, to support thesis, 45–46
- Personal observation, to support thesis, 45–46
- Personal pronouns, 674
- Personification, 131, 636
 - in description essays, 157
- Persuasion, 455. See also
 - Argumentation-persuasion
- Photocopying, when note-taking, 565–566
- Phrase(s)
 - adjective, 121
 - prepositional, 114–115, 121
- Phrase fragments, 668–670
 - correcting, 669–670
 - types of, 668–669
- Plagiarism, 566, 570–572
 - documentation to avoid, 581–611
- Plan of development
 - added to thesis, 66–67
 - in thesis, 39–40
- Plot, 635
- Point of view, 635
 - in essays, 22–23
 - faulty shifts in, 688–689
 - first-person, 22, 235, 635
 - in thesis, 39
 - third-person, 23, 231, 235, 635–636, 640
- Point-by-point method, 353
- Popular diction, 126
- Possessive case, 684
- Post hoc fallacy, 475–476
- Precise adjectives, 72
- Preliminary research, 534–535
- Prepositional phrase fragment, 668
- Prepositional phrases
 - excessive, 114–115
 - parallel, 121
 - separating subject and verb, 680
- Present participle phrase
 - fragment, 669
- Prewriting, 31–33
 - activities to get started in, 33–35
 - applying description to, 153
 - applying narration to, 194
 - argumentation-persuasion, 460, 491
 - cause-effect, 384–385, 400–401
 - comparison-contrast, 348–349, 362–363
 - defined, 14, 434
 - description, 153, 165
 - division-classification, 272, 285–286
 - exam essays, 660
 - for getting started, 14–33
 - illustration (example), 229–230, 243
 - in journal, 15–18
 - to limit the general subject of a research paper, 534
 - limited subjects, 31–33
 - literary analysis, 639–640
 - narration, 193, 206–207
 - process analysis, 310, 324–325
 - purpose for, 14–15
 - steps in, 14
- Primary cause/effect, 386
- Primary research, 30, 530
- Process analysis
 - audience for, 308, 312
 - chronological sequence in, 312
 - conclusion in, 315
 - defined, 307
 - description in, 151
 - directional, 308, 313–314
 - generating thesis evidence using, 47
 - informational, 308, 313–314
 - introduction in, 315
 - point of view in, 311, 313–314
 - prewriting activities, 324–325
 - prewriting checklist, 310
 - prewriting strategies, 310
 - purpose for 308–309, 312
 - revising activities, 325–327
 - revision strategies, 316
 - revision/peer review checklist, 316
 - strategies for using, 310–315
 - student essay and commentary and, 316–323
 - tone in, 314–315
 - transitions in, 314
 - types of, 308–309
- writing assignments in, 331–332, 338–339, 342–345
- Pronoun(s)
 - agreement, 687–689
 - defined, 683
 - demonstrative, 674
 - faulty agreement in, 688–689
 - indefinite, 680, 688
 - personal 674
 - problems with use of, 683–691
 - relative, 670–671
 - sexist, 133–134
 - using to enhance paragraph coherence, 78
- Pronoun case
 - classifications of, 684
 - correcting problems with, 686
 - defined, 684
 - faulty, 684–686
- Pronoun reference
 - correcting problems in, 690–691
 - unclear, 689–690
- Proofreading, 142–143
 - activities, 148–149
- “Psst! ‘Human Capital!’” (Brooks), 301–302
- Punctuation, 694
 - correcting problems with, 712–713
- Question mark, 675, 695
- Question words, roundabout
 - openings using, 114
- Quotation(s)
 - direct, 703–705
 - indirect, 703
 - using to support thesis, 45–46
- Quotation marks, 703–705
- Quotation notes, 566
- Random samples, 532
- “Rape: A Bigger Danger Than Feminists Know” (Paglia), 506–509
- Reader’s Guide to Periodical Literature*, 534, 542
- Reading
 - benefits of, 1–2
 - process of, 2–10
 - steps in effective, 2–5
- “Reality TV: Surprising Throwback to the Past?” (Cohen), 370–372
- Reasons, using to support thesis, 45–46
- Red herring argument, 477
- Redundancy, 112

- Reference books list of common, 541
 in writing research papers, 541–542
- Reliability, of writer, 458
- Remote cause/effect, 386
- Repeated words, to enhance paragraph coherence, 78
- Representative examples, 232–233
- Representative subgroups, 531–532
- Research, 30
- Research papers activities in locating, evaluating, and integrating online and print sources, 573–575 blending quotations into text, 586–589 boundaries of, 529
 checklist for evaluating online materials, 555 checklist for outlining research evidence, 578 checklist for preparing working bibliography 557
 checklist for refining working bibliography, 559–561
 checklist for revision of, 590–591 checklist for selecting an appropriate subject to research, 533
 checklist for writing first draft, 580 choosing a general subject for, 532–533 citing statistics in, 590 documentation in, 581–611
 drafting, 579–581
 evaluating online materials, 555
 evaluating sources for, 558–559 Internet information sources for, 547–555. See also Internet; Search engines; World Wide Web library sources for information, 536–547. See also Library
 note-taking, 557–558, 562–572
 outlining research evidence, 577–579 phases in process of, 529 planning, 529–532
 presenting primary research results, 581 prewriting to limit the general subject of, 534 primary vs. secondary research, 530
 purpose of, 528–529
- reading sources, 561–562
- refining working bibliography, 559–561
- revising, editing, and proofreading first draft of, 590–592
- scheduling phases of, 536
- student paper using APA-style documentation, 629–631
- student paper using MLA-style documentation, 611–629
- working bibliography for, 556–557
- working thesis, 535
 refining, 576–577
- works cited list in, 593–611
- writing activities for, 632–633
- writing, 576–611
- Restrictive word groups, 697
- Revision. See also under specific types of essays editing and proofreading process diagram, 140
 editing and proofreading, 140–148
 evaluating and responding to feedback on drafts, 98–99 evaluating and responding to peer review feedback, 101–103 marginal annotations in, 103 of overall meaning and structure, 103–104 of paragraph development, 104–106 peer review in, 99–103 reading drafts aloud, 97 of sentences, 110–124
 student essay and commentary and, 106–107, 134–135
 steps in, 98
 strategies for approaching, 96–103 strategies for description essays, 158
 of words, 124–134
 using appropriate manuscript format, 141–142 working from printed text, 97
- Rhyme, 636
- Rodriguez, Roberto, 516
- Rodriguez, Roberto, “The Border on Our Backs,” 517–518
- Rogierian strategy, 465–468
 checklist for, 467
- Rogers, Carl, 466
- Roundabout openings, 114
- Run-on sentences, 674–678
- Sanders, Scott Russell, 294
 “The Men We Carry in Our Minds,” 295–297
- Sarcasm, 636
- Satire, 636
- Savan, Leslie, 257–258
 “Black Talk and Pop Culture,” 258–263
- Scratch list, 31–33
- “Se Habla Entitlement” (Parker), 521–523
- Search directories, 550–551
- Search engines directories on, 550–551 focusing search on, 551–552 general, 551–553 specialized, 550
 tips for using, 551
- Second person point of view, 22–23
- Secondary cause/effect, 386
- Secondary research, 30, 530
- Semicolon, 675–676, 701
- Sensory language, 72–73, 156–158, 162–163, 197–199
- Sentence(s) bridging, 77
 comma splices, 674–678
 complex, 117–118, 119
 compound, 116–117
 compound-complex, 118
 content of, 110
 defined, 668
 economical, 112–115 emphatic, 120–124
 empty phrases in, 114 excessive prepositional phrases in, 114–115 faults in, 668–679
 fragments, 122–123, 668–674
 fused, 674 informal topic, 194, 197, 206
 redundancy in, 112
 revising activities, 135–138
 revision strategies, 110–124
 revision checklist, 124 roundabout openings of, 114 run-on, 674–678 simple, 115–116, 119 style of, 110
 tone of, 110
 topic, 68–69 variety in, 157–158 varying length of, 118–120 varying types of, 115–118 weak, 113
- Sentence structure, 21 varied, 199–200
- Setting, 635

- Sexist language, 132–133
- Sherry, Mary, 501
 “In Praise of the ‘F’ Word,” 502–503
- Shipley, David, 339 “Talking About Editing,” 340–341
- Signal devices, 76–78
- Similes, 131, 636
 in description essays, 157
- Simple sentences, 115–116, 119
- Simple-to-complex approach, to organizing evidence, 57–58
- “Sister Flowers” (Angelou), 167–171
- “Slow Walk of Trees, A” (Morrison), 364–367
- Sonnet, 636–637
- Soundness (of argument), 457
- Spatial approach, to organizing evidence, 56–57
- Spatial order, in paragraphs, 75–76
- Speaker, 635
- Spelling
 correcting problems with, 721–722
 strategies for accurate, 718–721
- Stanza, 636
- Staples, Brent, 412
 “Black Men and Public Space,” 412–414
- Statistics presenting in research papers, 590 for research papers, 562–563
 using to support thesis, 45–46
- Stoll, Clifford, 327
 “Cyberschool,” 327–329
- “Storm This Time, The” (Helvarg), 174–179
- “Story of an Hour, The” (Chopin), 652–652
- Strong verbs, 128–130
- Structure, 635
- Subject(s) compound, 687
 group, 680–681 limited, 23–30
- Subject-verb agreement, 679–682
- Subjective description, 152
- Subordinate clauses, 670–671
- Subordinating conjunctions, 670
- Summaries, of other authors’ ideas, 568–570
- Supporting paragraphs, 66–78
 characteristics of, 68–78
- Supportive audience, 458
- Surveys conducting, 531–532 information-gathering, 531 questions for, 531–532
- Syllogisms, 471–473
- Symbol, 636
- Synonyms, to enhance paragraph coherence, 78
- “Talking About Editing” (Shipley), 340–341
- Telnet, 555
- Tense, verb. See under Verb(s)
- Than* comparison, 685–686
- That* clauses, 115
- Theme, 635
- There*, roundabout openings with, 114
- Thesis statements, 31. See also Thesis
- Thesis activities identifying, 42–44
 supporting with evidence, 52–53
 argumentation-persuasion, 462–464
 in cause-effect essays, 389
 in comparison-contrast, 351 common problems in, 40–41
 defined, 36
 division-classification method and, 275–276
 effective, 38–42
 evidence for exam essays, 661 evidence to support, 45–52 in exam essays, 660–661
 identifying, 37–38
 in literary analysis, 640–641
 in narrative essays, 195 in process analysis, 311, 312 placement in essay, 42 plan of development and, 39–40, 66–67
 point of view in, 39
 working, 535
- Third person point of view, 23, 231, 235, 635–636
 in literary analysis, 640
- Titles, 84
- To be* verbs, 128–129
- Tone, 110
 of words, 124–125
- Topic sentences, 68–69
- Toulmin, Stephen, 473–475
The Uses of Argument, 473–475
- Toulmin logic, 473–475
 checklist for, 475
- Transition(s), 76–77
 chart of signal words/phrases, 76–77
 in comparison-contrast essays, 353–354
- Transitional adverbs, 674
- Transitional paragraphs, 78–79
- “Tweens: Ten Going on Sixteen” (Hymowitz), 245–249
- Typical-case examples, 232
- Typos, 142–143
- Underlining guidelines, 714–715
- Unified paragraphs, 70–71
- Uses of Argument*, The (Toulmin), 473–475
- Verb(s) action, 128–129 active, 129–130
 before subject in sentence, 681 faulty subject-verb agreement, 679–682
 linking, 73, 128–129
 parallel, 121
 passive, 129–130 strong, 128–130
 subject-verb agreement, 679–682
 tense correcting problems with, 683
 defined, 682
 faulty use of past tense, 682–683 inappropriate shifts in, 682 past perfect, 683 past, 682–683 to be, 73, 128–129
- Vocabulary, sexist vs. nonsexist, 132–133
- Warrant, in Toulmin logic, 473–475
- Wavering audience, 459
- Weblogs, 554
- Websites, 547. See also World Wide Web addresses of, 550 bookmarking, 550
 domain names, 550
- Weiner, Eric, 374–375
 “Euromail and Amerimail,” 375–377
- Which* clauses, 115
- White, E. B., 13
- Who* clauses, 115
- Who/whom, 686
- “Why We Crave Horror Movies”
 (King), 402–404

- Wikipedia.com, 554
- Wikis, 554
- Words
 - abstract vs. concrete, 72
 - checklist for revising, 134–135
 - choosing to establish tone, 21–22
 - connotation of, 21–22, 126–127
 - denotation of, 21–22, 126–127
 - diction, 125–126
 - doublespeak language, 126
 - euphemisms, 126
 - inverting order for
 - emphasis, 123
 - modifiers, 119
 - revising activities, 135–138
 - revising, 124–134
 - specific vs. general, 127–128
 - tone of, 124–125
- Working bibliography, 556–557
 - refining, 559–561
- Working thesis, 535
 - in literary analysis, 640–641
 - refining, 576–577
- Works cited list, 593–611
- World Wide Web. See also Internet
 - advantages and limitations of vs. library, 548–549
 - defined, 547
 - evaluating online materials, 555
 - links on, 551
 - material available on, 547–548
 - searching. See Search engines
 - websites on, 547
- Writing assignments
 - active reading, 11
 - argumentation-persuasion,
 - 500–501, 504–506, 510–511, 515–516, 519–520, 524–527
 - boundaries of, 18
 - cause-effect, 406–407, 410–412
 - comparison-contrast, 368–369, 373–374, 378–381
 - definition, 439–440, 445–446, 451–454
 - description, 173–174, 180–181, 192–193
 - division-classification, 293–294, 298–300, 303–307
 - exam essays, 665
 - illustration (example), 249–252, 256–257, 264–267
 - journal entry as a starting point
 - for, 174, 181, 193, 213, 220, 223–224, 252, 257, 265, 300, 304, 332, 339, 343–344, 369
 - literary analysis, 646–648, 650
 - narration, 212, 219–220, 223–225
 - process analysis, 331–332, 338–339, 342–345